SUSTAINABILITY

Stockholm Waterfront Congress Centre takes pride in being green and is one of the world's most energy efficient buildings.

The energy solution was designed to cut CO₂ emissions and minimize impact on the environment and climate change. The glass façades combine 1,040 m² solar collectors that gather approximately 1 MW of heat energy daily. This is equivalent to 90,000 normal low energy bulbs.

Furthermore, a large part of material has been reused from the building previously occupying the site. The building is cooled by water drawn from the lake, which is stored in ice tanks weighing 250 tons.
