Montferrat,
UNESCO World
Heritage Site

The Relais Sant'Uffizio is situated on a gentle slope among carefully tended vineyards with small upland villages and medieval castles nearby; here viticulture has been the basis of economic and social life for centuries.

The former monastery, an ancient (16th century) establishment in the heart of Montferrat, has long been recognized by UNESCO as an integral part of the Piedmontese cultural landscape and assessed as of "outstanding universal value" to the world's cultural and natural heritage.

Renovated in a contemporary style yet keeping its fundamental character, it has been converted into a splendid four-star hotel. The Relais is now equipped with everything needed for meetings, an idyllic wellness centre with spa and an excellent gourmet restaurant.

There are 54 elegantly-appointed and tastefully furnished bedrooms, 41 in the Relais itself and 13 in the Munfrà, a contemporary style building nearby. The bedrooms of the Relais Sant'Uffizio, many of them recently refurbished for even greater comfort, pay homage to the building's history and reveal many original features including frescoes of the ancient monastery in a perfect state of conservation. Authentic furniture and pastel-coloured decoration give the bedrooms and suites the finishing touch that makes a stay specially memorable, while providing all the convenience and space the visitor could require.

You can if you wish have the whole of the Munfrà to yourself for your meeting; this exclusive and privileged formula can be customized in every service detail.
